Dinner at Heritage House

On Friday, April 15 at 8:30 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byron Arnold were hosts for dinner at the Heritage House following rehearsal for the Harrison-Arnold wedding in Prescott.

Miss Marjorie Trott greeted the guests at the door and pinned a cymbidium orchid on the bride-elect, Miss Mary Frances Harrison. She wore a two-piece silk frock. White carnation corsages were presented to her mother, Mrs. John Griffin Harrison, and to Mrs. Richard Arnold and Mrs. J. M. Arnold, mother and grandmother, respectively, of the future bridegroom, Richard Guy Arnold. Assisting in dispensing hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Baker.

The bride's table and a T-shaped table where the three-course dinner was served was decorated with white stocks, majestic daisies, leatherleaf fern, and white tapers, carrying out the bride's chosen colors of green and white. Covers were laid for 34.

Hope Community Theater

When the Hope Community Theater met at the Hope City Hall Thursday, April 21, plans were made to attend the state Little Theater Convention in Little Rock at the Arts Center on the weekend of April 29-May 1. Those named as delegates were Mrs. Lloyd Guerin, Mrs. Chris Petre, and Mrs. Don Evans.

The local theatrical group is making itself available for programs at civic clubs, according to Dr. Lloyd Guerin, president. Those desiring more details should contact Dr. Guerin.

Mrs. Monty Monts presented the program at the meeting. First, a narrative poem, "St. Peter at the Gate," was enacted by Mrs. Christ Petre, David Pearson, and Johnny Turner. Then, Mrs. Tim Walter gave three interpretive readings by James Thurber, Ogden Nash, and James Weldon Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whitaker were welcomed as new members of the organization. Mrs. Lloyd Guerin served refreshments after the business meeting.

Miss Lehman's Bridge Club Red roses decorated the home of Miss Mary K. Lehman when she entertained her Bridge Club on Friday, April 22. The two tables of players included one guest, Mrs. Garrett Story. High scorers for the afternoon were Mrs. C. C. Lewis and Mrs. Dewey Camp. A dessert plate and coffee were served after play was concluded.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Nix spent the weekend with the Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Rodriguez and family in San Antonio and attended a fiesta while there.

Mrs. Ethel A. Davis, Sherman Oaks, Calif., and Miss Katherine Arnold, Ft. Worth, are visiting their mother, Mrs. John Arnold, and other relatives.

Mrs. C. Cook and Mrs. E. P. Young have returned to Hope after a week in Dallas, and they were accompanied home by Mrs. Cook's daughter, Mrs. George Helm.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reed Kirk, San Fernando, Calif., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fay James and the Burgess Garrett Family.

Miss Elsie Weisenberger, of Houston attended a weekend meeting of the Arkansas Association of University Women in Little Rock with friends and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Royce Weisenberger in Hope.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Byron Arnold immediately preceding the Harrison-Arnold wedding April 16 included Steve Cummings, Waco, Tex.; Alfred Culpepper, Helena; Calvin Arnold, Memphis; James Nixon of Crosssett; Ben Arnold, Warren; W. A. Winston, Pine Bluff; and relatives here were Ann Arnold, U of A; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cummings, Hobbs, N.M.; Homer M. Andrews, Midland, Tex.; and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mills and daughters, Durant, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway and Scotty, Little Rock, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Burke at the time of the Harrison-Arnold wedding.

What's New Pussycat?

Dear Helen: I have a new car, new to me — and I want to tiger it up. My dad won't let me put racing stripes down the middle. Can you suggest something I can afford (not more than five bones) that will make people turn around and stare? — Non-Conformist

Dear Non: How about a "tiger in your trunk"? Get your girl friend to stitch up and stuff a long tube of tiger-cloth (synthetic fur is best but also more expensive) put a wire down the middle so the "tail" will curl, and fasten it inside your car trunk. When you drive down the street with a tiger tail lashing behind, you'll get stares, never doubt it! — H.

Dear Helen: My sister is only a high school sophomore but she is running with a crowd (just lately) that smokes marijuana and even tries LSD. She says marijuana isn't addictive and LSD is harmless; besides she "only does it for kicks because it she didn't sit in on these parties the kids would think she was chicken."

I talked to my aunt, and she said it was just a phase and she had also heard marijuana was non-addictive. I think she is afraid of getting the law down on us.

I don't want to cause trouble, but I'm scared. If I tell my Dad my sis will never forgive me. What shall I do? — Afraid

Dear Afraid: If you don't tell your Dad, you may never forgive YOURSELF! Marijuana is a first step to addictive drugs. A teen weak and way-out enough to try it has already proved she is a potential "main-liner." LSD is harmless! Almost any magazine you pick up these days will tell you how frighteningly dangerous it is.

It's your duty to tell your father all you know about these "pot" parties, and it's HIS duty to alert the police. Possibly a good scare will turn this foolish chick into a wise "chicken." — H.

Crystal Ball Department

Dear Helen: I wrote to you last year that my boyfriend had broken up with me (because he suddenly got noticed by the girls after I kinda "discovered" him). You said his head was turned and play it cool — when he sees what a good sport I am, he'll realize what he's missing.

Helen, you must have a crystal ball. Everything you told me in your letter came true! I was so upset and blue, and I found it hard at first, just waiting and being a good pal. But I was able to date other boys and my "ex" and I became the best of friends. We even told each other our problems.

Well, now I'm 16 and he's 17

Blood Test for Drunks Challenged

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was asked today to rule unconstitutional the taking of a blood sample over the objection of a person suspected of drunken driving.

Its ruling could have a wide effect on one of the most common modern police weapons in the battle against highway slaughter.

Arguing for Armando S. Schmerber, convicted of drunken driving in Los Angeles in 1964, attorney Thomas M. McGurrin told the court:

"Invasion of the body and the taking of its fluids over the objection of the person violates due process, unreasonable search and seizure and self-incrimination provisions of the constitution."

Eight of the nine justices sharply questioned Edwin Davenport, attorney for Los Angeles County, as he defended the taking of the blood sample from Schmerber after he had announced his objection.

Schmerber was hospitalized at the time his auto having smashed into a tree.

"Taking a blood sample by approved medical methods does not violate due process," Davenport argued. "This is a reasonable taking of evidence. There is no brutal force, nothing that would shock community standards."

McGurrin argued that "if this court holds there is no violation unless the defendant put up strong resistance I'll have to tell my client, 'You're not entitled to due process under our Constitution unless you fight for the right and possibly shed blood.'"

Under questioning by the court, Davenport conceded that when suspected drunks offer substantial physical resistance, "we do not take blood tests."

But he added that the taking of a sample or even the holding of an arm, is not unreasonable force.

This brought a sharp retort from Chief Justice Earl Warren.

"You're saying," Warren told Davenport, "that if a man acts like a good citizen and quietly asserts his constitutional right on the advice of his attorney, his blood is taken, while a hoodlum who threatens all sorts of violence, and never obeys rules and regulations gets away without one."

"It would depend, on the facts of a given case," Davenport replied.

Flooding in Texas Hits New Crisis

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP) — Violent thunderstorms swept across drenched northeast Texas Monday, threatening to make flooding conditions more serious and adding to damages that already reach into the millions.

Tornadoes struck in south Texas and winds up to 75 miles per hour lashed the Corpus Christi area.

A packing plant was downed and trees uprooted at Marshall and a second tornado in the Marshall area knocked down power lines and swept away the roof of a press box at a baseball park.

Another twister dipped to the ground north of Lake Quitman in the Mineola area. It caused heavy damage on the Keysey Ross farm.

Earlier, tornadoes struck the town of Keneey and Runge in south Texas, leaving about 250 persons homeless and causing extensive damage to business buildings.

Planted Tree
The most famous magnolia tree in the United States was planted by President Andrew Jackson on the White House grounds in honor of his wife, Rachel.

This will be the largest phase by far in the agency's efforts to pump massive federal aid into the city to help minority groups which have been plagued by unemployment which recent studies showed has reached 20 per cent of the labor force, the agency said.

The agency has already 65 designated Oakland for massive federal aid and has approved four projects to help the community. All, however, are small when compared with the plans to be detailed by Foley on Friday.

These will include a $10-million hangar to be leased to World Airways, Inc., a cargo carrier, to create 1,000 jobs.

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy arrived today from an eight-day visit to Spain and was met by her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill.

Mrs. Kennedy told airport newsmen she had come to London to visit her sister and would leave Tuesday for New York.

Top Runner Because He Fights Pain

By JIM VAN Valkenburg Associated Press Sports Writer LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Precocious Jim Ryun, whose 3:55.8 mile at the Kansas Re-lays was swiftest in the world this year, is America's pre-miere miler because of his will- ingness and ability to endure pain.

"This is the secret — his abili- ty to push back the pain bar- rier," said Bob Timmons, coach of the 18-year-old Kansas fresh- man. "If you keep working long and hard the pain becomes ter- rific."

"If you want to be great, you can't let down. Jim has the will and ability to fight it through. He does it day after day in practice."

Ryun's time was just a half-second off his American citizens record of 3:55.3 at the National AAL last year. Teammate Tom Yergovich paced him to a 1:58.7 Saturday, his best half-mile time ever during a mile race. Ryun steamed the last 220 in 28 flat compared to 26.6 in his record AAU race.

A repeat performance at the Drake Relays Saturday is un- likely, Timmons said, because his training schedule is still aimed at the AAU meet in June and Russian meet in July. He'll resume heavy work this week.

Rice won three Relays crowns, Oklahoma State and Kansas two each at the 41st Kansas Games. Eight meet records were smashed, thanks to seven hours of labor on a track sodden from a heavy overnight rain.

Rice's 3:07.4 scorecher was a mile relay meet record and fastest anywhere by a Texas school. Jim Ellington, the only senior, anchored the mile in 46.1.

Ryun was an overwhelming choice as most outstanding per- former over John Perry of Oklahoma State, who had a 1:49.2 anchor half for a winning two-mile time of 7:22.8, best in the nation this year, plus a 1:48.8 for the winning sprint medley and a 47 flat quarter on the mile relay.

Kansas set a distance medley record of 9:41.3, and a four-mile mark of 16:36.8, both best in Big Eight history, with John Lawson running 4:05.6 and 4.03 anchor miles. Lowell Paul won the dis- tance medley with his 2:56.8 three-quarters.

Other meet marks Saturday, winding up a three-day meet, were a 6:01 high jump by Mis- souri's Steve Herndon and a 50- 9½ triple jump by John Vernon of Southern Illinois.

Rome (AP) — The Interna- tional Olympic Committee turned today to the crucial job of its meeting the make-or- break study of city bids for the sites of the 1972 games.

The IOC had 50 other items on its agenda, ranging from the apartheid issue of the South Af- rican government to Mexico's preparations for the 1968 Olym- pics and recognition of the in- ternational federations for bowl- ing, water skiing and skibob.

But the big question is who will be the hosts for the summer and winter Games in 1972.

The four contenders for the summer site were summoned to make their presentations this afternoon. The delegations were ready with glossy brochures and what they hoped would be con- vincing arguments.

Detroit made its pitch first and Gov. George Romney of Michigan was on hand to boost the city's presentation. Madrid, Munich and Montreal followed with 45 minutes allotted to each delegation.

The committee scheduled similar presentations Tuesday morning for the winter site hopefuls — Banff, Canada, Salt Lake City, Utah, Sapporo, Ja- pan, and Lahti, Finland.

The selections will be an- nounced Tuesday afternoon.

Gossip during the days of in- tensive lobbying that preceded the opening of the IOC meeting pointed to Banff and Munich as the favorites. The IOC, how- ever, is notorious for defying the odds.

Griffith Is to Sue for Welter Title

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith, the fresh young, middleweight champion, plans to go to court today in an effort to keep the welterweight crown, too, after his close, controver- sial, upset conquest of aging Dick Tiger.

The 20-year-old king of the 147-pound welterweight division was a 21 underdog when he dethroned the 36-year-old Tiger as ruler of the 160-pound mid- dleweight class on a unanimous 15-round decision Monday night in Madison Square Garden. The odds are even bigger against Griffith's chances of being per- mitted to hold both crowns.

There is a strong possibility that Griffith will give Tiger a return shot at the middleweight crown at the Garden on June 13. If it doesn't come off, then Griffith might take on either Joey Archer of New York or Italy's Nino Benvenuti, the un- defeated junior middle weight title defense.

"Tiger can have the return bout, if he wants it," said the unmarked victor. "He was a good sport to give me the chance. I'm a good sport, too."

"I'd like the return," said the dejected Nigerian, who was knocked down for the first time in his 14-year career. "I thought I deserved the decision. It take two to make a fight."

Referee Art Mercante had it 9-5-1 in rounds for Griffith. Judge Frank Forbes had it 7-6-2 while Judge Tony Castilano had it even in rounds, 7-7-1, but Griffith ahea on points 8-7.

It was the second time Tiger has lost the middleweight title. He dropped it to Joey Giardello in 1963 and regained it from Giardello last Oct. 21 in the Garden.

Griffith, the third welter- weight champion to capture the middleweight crown, automati- cally vacates the lighter divi- sion title under the rules of the New York State Athletic Com- mission, the World Boxing Asso- ciation and most other boxing bodies of the world.

"We're not giving up the wel- terweight title," said Howard Albert, Griffith's manager. "We're going to the State Su- preme Court Tuesday to seek an injunction to prevent the com- mission from taking away the title."

Really a River

Florida's Everglades Na- tional Park is not really a swampy region, but a great, shallow river stretching across the southern end of the state.

Cleveland Wins Over Kansas City

BY HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer It takes two to tango but the way Sam McDowell and Del Crandall were working on Kan- sas City, it looked more like a world twist with the Athletics in the league.

McDowell, Cleveland's fire- balling left-hander, hurled a one-hitter Monday night, beat the Athletics 20 and afterwards he gave most of the credit to his journeyman catcher, Cran- dall.

"I don't want to take anything away from our other catchers," the Indian ace said, "but Del has the experience. He came out to the mound twice and both times he caught things I was doing wrong."

McDowell, now 3-0, has had Crandall as his batterymate in each of his four starts and he likes the idea of pitching to the 38-year-old veteran.

"I shook him off a couple of times in the opener," said Mc- Dowell. "It's different now. We're working together in sort of an easy rhythm. Like a dance team."

McDowell was waltzing along on a no-hitter for five innings against Kansas City before Jose Tartabull's looping single lead- ing off the sixth broke the spell.

The hit was the only one the A's managed as McDowell struck out eight. Garry Brown drove in both Indian runs with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the sixth inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, Denny McLain hurled a four-hitter as Detroit blanked Minnesota 3-0, Chicago shaded Washington 3-2 despite a titanic victory by Frank Hoear, and Boston handed New York its seventh straight loss 8-5.

In the National League, Hous- ton edged Cincinnati 7-1, Atlanta blanked San Francisco 5-0, Phil- adelphia shut out Pittsburgh 5-0 and St. Louis extended Los An- geles' runless string to three games with a 2-0 victory.

McLain got home run support from Norm Cash and Al Kaline to beat the Twins for his third victory of the season. Cash with a bases-empty homer in the fourth and McLain protected the slim lead until Kaline's two- run shot in the eighth gave him some breathing space.

Tom McCraw's ninth inning sacrifice fly beat the Senators for Chicago but Howard's homer stole the show. It was still rising when it zoomed into the mezzanine seats in deepest center field, 480 feet from home plate. It was believed to be the longest homer in the five-year history of D.C. Stadium.

Howard pooh-poohed the ex- citement over his shot. "I've hit 'em further," he said. "Would you believe it?"

Teammate Don Lock didn't. He was convinced it was How- ard's longest shot.

McCraw's sacrifice fly brought Floyd Robinson home with the winning run after Rob- inson had walked ad moved to third to Pete Ward's single. Top catcher Doug Camilli dropped his foul pop for a er- ror.

Carl Yastrzemski ripped four hits for Boston which handed New York its 10th loss in 11 starts. Ray Barker, Bobby Richardson and rookie Roy White all homered for the last place Yankees.

to shortstop Dick Groat nailed the first out.

Then while Bunning was con- centrating on Pagan, Alou stole second. And when Bunning con- cerned himself with Alou, the pitcher threw the ball into cen- ter field, allowing Alou to reach third.

By this time Pagan had two strikes on him, out that didn't stop him from pursuing the bunt. The squeeze play was called for.

Pagan, however, missed the pitch for strike three and the second out — and Alou was trapped off third and run down for the third out.

It was almost as if Pagan swung — or didn't swing — into a triple play.

In other NL games, St. Louis landed Los Angeles its third straight 2-0 defeat and Houston edged Cincinnati 2-1.

In the American League, Cleveland trimmed Kansas City 2-0 Detroit blanked Minnesota 3-0. Chicago nipped Washington 3-2 and Boston downed New York 8-5.

Johnson limited the Giants to three hits while retiring Mays on a pop up, a strikeout and a liner. Mays, seeking his 512th home run, also walked. Johnson received support from Lee Thomas' three-run homer and Hank Aaron's two-run blast.

Bunning stopped the Pirates' on five hits and got the only run he needed when Rich Alou homered in the fourth. The Phil- lies added four runs in the sixth, two on a single by Cookie Rojas.

Larry Jaster joined the shut- out pitchers, scattering seven hits and extending the Dodgers' scoreless inning string to 30.

Many Faces of the Men From U.N.C.L.E.

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Last of a Series)

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Man from U.N.C.L.E. series has ushered in the Era of the P.E.R.I.O.D., a device which now is being used freely in movie titles and episodes for other television series.

The United Nations admitted recently that it receives stacks of mail from people who want to know how to join U.N.C.L.E. U.N.C.L.E. stands for the United Network Command for Law and Enforcement. It has no connection with the U.N., but "officially" U.N.C.L.E. is no longer only a fictional outfit.

MGM has registered the organization's name and issued U.N.C.L.E. cards to a fortunate few so that, according to a studio spokesman, "we don't have to tell people it's not a real organization."

Games, sweatshirts, jigsaw puzzles and other pieces of U.N.C.L.E. merchandise are big sellers. All this has focused the spotlight on two young actors whose personalities are as divergent as they are magnetic. One is David McCallum, a Scot who was a virtual unknown before the series. The other, of course, is Robert Vaughn, who had been on the verge of stardom for years but had never quite broken through.

Until U.N.C.L.E. Now you can tell that Robert Vaughn has arrived. When a Philadelphia dry cleaner didn't return Vaughn's clothes in time for him to take them to New York, Vaughn had his clothes sent up by limousine. That's elegance in the Napoleon Solo image.

But now that he is a big success, Vaughn also must pay the penalty of seeing a public image emerge which is different from his image of himself. "I just don't think I'm as interesting as some of the stories make me," Vaughn said.

One article in a national magazine pictured Vaughn as a politically ambitious ham-bone with his eye on the White House.

"I'd like to meet the guy who wrote that article," he said. "He sounds like a Class A nut."

"Have I ever been accurately presented in print? Well, I guess the most accurate story was written by two college girls who were not obligated to be provocative or controversial."

Vaughn's interests range from politics to astrology, education (he still attends classes at the University of Southern California) and women.

In addition to the canard that Vaughn wants to be president, there is one that says he and McCallum don't get along. If this is true, Vaughn is an even better actor than is generally known.

He mentions McCallum constantly in his conversations, but the references are never strained or gratuitous. "Hardly a day goes by without someone approaching David and asking him when I'll be leaving the show to run for office," Vaughn said. There are reports, however, that he may be considering running for a statewide office in California.

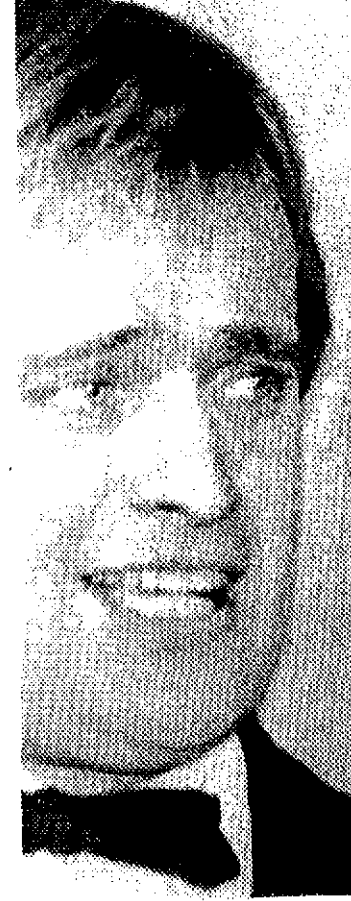

Vaughn is still a bachelor, because, he said, "I've never met anyone I would want to see every day." Nevertheless he has a sharp eye out for a pretty girl. When he spots four at one time, things are even better.

"I was driving down Sunset Boulevard recently, and a convertible ahead of me had four of the loveliest blonde pageboy hair-dos I had seen in a long time. When they stopped for a light, I pulled up alongside and got the shock of my life when the driver turned to me. He was smoking a big black cigar. They were all men. Popular singers, I assume."

Vaughn is completely happy with the series now. "At this point I hope it goes for the full five years. But talk to me in a couple of years. I may be another Pennell Roberts."

Roberts, at the height of his career, walked out on the Bonanza series.

David McCallum, the sly Illya Kuryakin, on a scheduled personal appearance at Macy's in New York, attracted 15,000 screaming teen-agers who caused such a crush in the store that David, hiding out in the executive dining room, was advised that it would be dangerous for him—and the girls—if he appeared. He didn't.

ROBERT VAUGHN

DAVID MCCALLUM

Between them, Vaughn and McCallum have made guest appearances on so many television shows you get the idea that someone at MGM, where the series is filmed, has run the boys through a duplicating machine and is sending out copies for guest shots.

The series even has produced a spin-off series which will begin next season. Its name? The Girl from U.N.C.L.E.

McCallum, whose Scottish background is musical and whose father is a violinist with Mantovani's orchestra, has produced, conducted and television shows was a series. "McCallum is a 32-year-old father of three boys. He has penetrating blue eyes (when he looks at you, you know you are being looked at), blond hair that he keeps cutting shorter, and a fine, straight nose. He photographs a young 25. In person he looks so young you somehow expect to see him carrying schoolbooks under his arm."

Ivan Tors, who produced "Around the World Under the Sea," says David has the most intense concentration he has ever seen in any actor. "He could stand for hours in front of an animal and watch. This combination of observation composed some of the songs on a new Capitol record album called 'Music—A Part of Me.'"

McCallum decidedly is the busier of the two. He has made a film called "Around the World Under the Sea," set for summer release, and has signed to make another film, after sifting through some 30 offers.

"I had it in the back of my mind when I came to the United States that I would stay here," McCallum said. "I have always planned everything very carefully and the logical progression of my career after I finished a film and did some roles on other and concentration is what makes him such a great actor."

"When I was first in script or written out. They wrote me out of so many scripts that I began to have regrets.

"I suppose now I am getting closer to the 'leading man' type, as they call it," McCallum added. "I'm rather an uncommon leading man. I'm not tall, I'm not ruggedly handsome. In fact, I'm downright ugly."

"I do all the stunts myself except those the insurance company won't let me do. Actually, they have clamped down this year. Last year they couldn't find a double for me. Obviously they figured we would only be on one year, so they let me do them all. It didn't matter last year if I killed myself."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—Whether it is real adventure or the paper-back variety they seek, television viewers can take their choice during the next seven days of network television broadcasts.

The variety ranges from "The World of Jacques-Yves Cousteau"—filmed deep under the Mediterranean—to "The Poppy Is Also a Flower," a 90-minute drama based on an Ian Fleming outline about the international narcotic traffic. Somewhere in between is a 90-minute historical drama, "Lamp at Midnight," about Galileo.

"The Poppy Is Also a Flower" arrives first—tonight—and will be on ABC (7:30-9 EST). A large cast of stars includes Princess Grace of Monaco, Omar Sharif and E. G. Marshall.

"Lamp at Midnight" arrives on NBC Wednesday (7:30-9 EST), part of the "Hall of Fame Series" and Stars Melvyn Douglas and David Wayne. The Cousteau film will be broadcast on CBS Thursday night (7:30-8:30).

Other special items during the period include ABC's comedy "The Man in the Square Suit" tonight (9-9:30), and CBS' "20th Century" program on Sunday (6-6:30 p.m.) about the 1944 Warsaw uprising.

"Red China: Year of the Gun," is the name of an NBC News Department special Wednesday evening (10-11), and it includes film taken there by foreign crews.

BEATLE BANGS?—Never underestimate the effect of the Beatles. The British music makers are due for a concert at Cincinnati, Ohio—in August—and to demonstrate her devotion, fan Merry Stonburg, 16, showed up at the advance ticket office with this appropriate hairdo.

Hervey Allen based his novel, "Israfel," on the life of Edgar Allan Poe.

That's the way it is with a man and his newspaper. Rain or shine, year-in and year-out. The newspaper is always taking a stand against someone or something. Then why do 95 million adults spend more than half an hour reading their newspaper every day, year after year?

Because most of us realize that controversy is the measure of an energetic, healthy community. We want to be sure that we're living the best life we can. And if things could be better we want to know which things and why and how. Newspapers give us the answer.

If you manufacture or sell something that is a little better than what your competition offers, take your story to the newspaper reading public. These are the people who thrive on the original, the different, and the new.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A letter from Toronto reads: "I sat East. The first trick was won by dummy's king of spades. South went to his own hand with a heart and led the eight of clubs around to my jack. I returned a spade whereupon South made two spades, two hearts, four clubs, one diamond, game and rubber. My partner told me that I should have ducked the first club and set the hand. Should I have ducked and would that play have defeated South?"

The answer to our reader's first question is "Yes." The answer to his second question is "Probably, but not certainly." Declarer could still make the hand had he known the location of all the cards. After the eight of clubs he could cash one high club and duck a diamond around to West. West's best play would be to lead another spade which South would duck. South would take the next spade, cash his ace of diamonds and remaining high heart, and throw East in with a heart. East would win tricks with his queen and ten of hearts but would then have to lead away from his jack of clubs to give dummy the last two tricks.

have set the hand by simply covering the eight of clubs with his queen. Furthermore, he would risk nothing at all by that queen play. It should have been obvious to West that if South held the jack of clubs, West's queen was useless but if East held that jack, West's queen should be played immediately. Actually the queen play might have produced real dividends. South might have let it hold and taken a finesse against the jack later to go down several tricks.

Old Maids Happy; Bachelors Lonely

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The carefree bachelor and the bitter old maid may exist only in the minds of fiction writers.

A recently released study by a California psychiatrist reports that in real life unmarried men generally turn out to be more unhappy and maladjusted than either single or married women and that married men are the happiest of all four.

Conducted by Dr. Genevieve Knupfer, a psychiatrist at the Mental Research Institute of Berkeley, the study was financed by a grant from the Health, Education and Welfare Department's National Institute of Mental Health.

Dr. Knupfer's group intensively interviewed 785 adults (all older than 23) from the San Francisco area. All were either married or had never been married. From the data, the researchers came to conclusions which shatter several generalities which have been accepted for many years.

Far from being gay and carefree, the life of the bachelor may grow increasingly grim, the study suggests. While the single woman maintains many close friendships and family ties, the single man tends to become more isolated.

His suicide rate exceeds that of the single woman, the authors note, and marriage literally may be a lifesaver for him in many cases.

The bachelor is more likely to be out of step with the rest of the world Dr. Knupfer reports. Her study found that the single male is nearly three times as likely to report himself unhappy as the single girl, four times as likely to dislike his job.

Bachelors also rank highest among the four groups in antisocial tendencies. About a third of those interviewed had at one time been in trouble with the law.

Single men were more likely than other adults to have lived with only one parent, to be unsure of parental love and to find the authority of parents irksome. Three out of five said their parents' marriage was "not too happy."

Asked why he was a bachelor, one man, 41, responded:

"The divorce in my family was the main reason. What I saw of that marriage was enough for me... a continuous fight, day and night... He was a fifth-day man and she did pretty good herself. I was a piece of furniture. I wasn't even included in the family."

The old maid, the study found, is happier and better adjusted. Generally, she enjoyed the happiest childhood of all four groups.

The explanation, Dr. Knupfer believes, is mainly cultural. Since most women are eager to get married, she notes, the men who escape are most likely to be rejects.

Because of the greater freedom of choice men have in the marriage market, she adds, it seems likely that those among them who are either unable or unwilling to get married were more psychologically impaired to begin with.

Dr. Knupfer reports that because many men want to feel superior to their wives, the women with strong personalities and other gifted traits may be bypassed more often than the less outstanding women.

"Given the facts that men usually marry women younger than themselves and that men have a higher death rate than women at all ages, it would seem possible that any number of accidental factors which might cause a delay in marriage for a young woman could seal her fate as far as marriage is concerned," she says.

On questions seeking to measure happiness, high spirits and job satisfaction, the married men generally scored highest. He worries less and is the least likely of the four groups to feel lonely or depressed.

But, cheer up, bachelors! Dr. Knupfer reports that, as a group, you've remained less domesticated than your married counterparts.

This means that for masculine virtues, such as desiring independence and freedom from conventional rules, you're the tops.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Removal Is Best For Toxic Goiter

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My daughter, 39, is very nervous. She had an enlarged thyroid. One doctor wanted to remove the gland right away but her family doctor gave her medicine and the gland shrank to half its former size. Was she right not to have it removed? She is still very nervous.

A—An overactive thyroid (toxic goiter) is one cause of extreme nervousness. If this is the cause of your daughter's trouble she will have a rapid pulse, a fine tremor of her hands and some degree of protrusion of her eyeballs. In the early stages these symptoms are best evaluated by a physician as they can easily be missed by a layman.

If she has a toxic goiter her thyroid should be removed. Medical treatment with propylthiouracil is effective in younger persons but in those who are over 25 it cannot be relied on to control this disease.

Q—I had almost all of my toxic goiter removed 18 months ago. I still have a rapid pulse. What do you advise?

A—In the past it was customary to remove about 6-7 of the thyroid of persons with toxic goiters but recurrences are so common following this operation that many surgeons now advise removing all of the gland and then giving thyroid extract. The dosage must be carefully adjusted to individual needs.

Q—I have been taking Tapazole for two months for a nodule in my thyroid and overactivity of the gland. How long must I take this drug? Is it dangerous? Should I have the gland removed?

A—This drug is given to get patients in better shape for removal of the thyroid and to patients who for some reason cannot be operated on. Some persons are hypersensitive to this drug and should not take it. It is not otherwise dangerous but at best it is a stop-gap to be used until your goiter can be removed.

Q—My son, 16, was hospitalized for an inflammation of his thyroid. What could cause this? Are there any bad after-effects?

A—Acute thyroiditis with fever is not a common disease. The cause is unknown but is believed to be a virus. The disease runs its course and complete recovery is the rule.

Q—I read recently about a new local application for fungus disease of the skin in moist areas. What is it? Enzactin doesn't help me.
A—You may be referring to tolnaftate solution (Tinactin) or acrisorcin ointment (Akrinell).

Helping Hand

Has a bus driver barked at you lately? Has a trolley conductor been rude? Complain to the company or write to your newspaper—but don't sue. Bad manners that merely ruffle your feelings are not enough grounds for a lawsuit.

But when bad manners also menace your safety, then the law is concerned indeed. Suppose you need a helping hand getting into or out of a public conveyance. You are entitled to have that helping hand, not just as a matter of courtesy but also as a matter of law.

Consider this case:
A young mother, carrying a suitcase, a bundle, and a baby, started to descend the steps of a train. Although two railroad employees saw her struggling, they made no move to help. She fell, suffered injuries, and—later—collected damages from the railroad.

"Where personal assistance is seen to be needed," said the court, "duty demands it should be rendered."

Not only the condition of the passenger but also the condition of the stopping place may create a duty of assistance. Thus, a taxicab passenger won a court case partly because the driver let her off—unaided—at a place where the pavement was broken up.

Furthermore, help that is given must be given with care. When a trolley passenger missed a departing car, the conductor reached down and seized his arm. For 100 feet he dragged the reluctant man along, trying in vain to pull him aboard. When the conductor finally let go the man hit the ground with a thud. A court held the company liable.

On the other hand, you cannot expect help if you need it not evident. A woman with an arthritic knee, who stumbled while entering a bus, failed to win damages from the company. The court noted that her handicap was not obvious to the bus driver—and that she neglected to ask him for aid.

In short, while the traveling public is entitled to a decent regard for its safety, there are limits. One woman, complaining that a trolley conductor didn't help her alight, based her claim on the undeniable fact that she was fat. But the court turned her down with this comment:

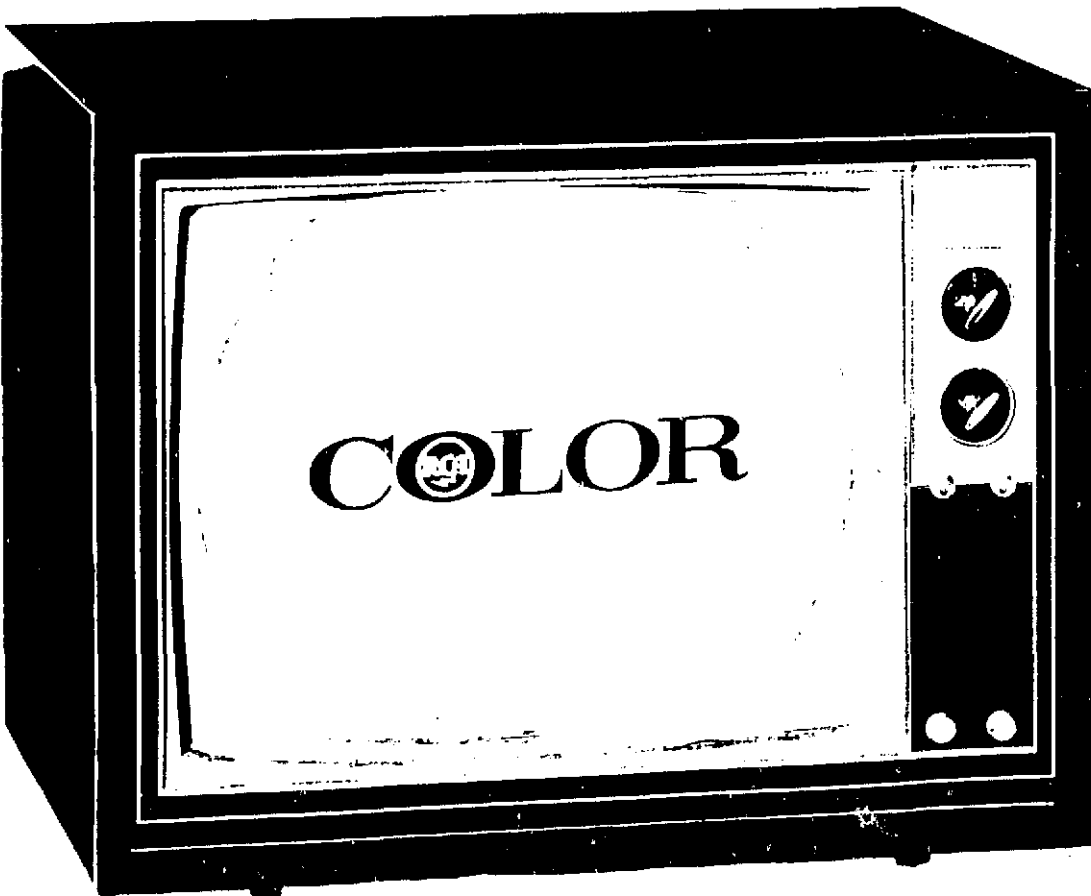

"The mere fact that a woman weighs over 200 pounds cannot make it the duty of the conductor to drop all other duties and help her get off."

No Housewarming Bureaucrats Now in Detroit

Yesterday your editor disclosed he was on the news desk because Managing Editor Paul H. Jones and wife Mattie Elsie were busy moving into their new house on Highway 4 East.

And he added the thoughtful suggestion that friends not bother them until they have time to get settled.

It was well-intentioned advice that now appears unnecessary.

For Monday night the Joneses came down with the mumps.

Today's wire report indicates the Detroit automobile-makers have reversed their earlier stand and will not oppose compulsory federal safety standards in the new models.

This writer is not overjoyed. There are, of course, a lot of Americans who don't know a carburetor from a differential but don't hesitate to back federal meddling with every last product that we buy from the limited income that an extravagant government leaves us after taxes. But my view is widely to the right of these non-mechanical authorities.

Every time I hear of some "reform" projected by Washington I think: "How convenient for the federal politicians! Now they've created a lot of plush federal jobs for appointment-hungry camp-followers. Things couldn't be nicer — for the politicians."

But how about the people who buy cars? Will they be happy over the prospect of federal dogooders swarming over Detroit's factories, freezing design according to their own whimsy, and adding to the manufacturing cost, and inevitably the price you and I will have to pay? My doubts on this score add up to a certainty — the certainty that some day, sooner or later, an angry public will exclaim, "I've had it!"

The fact is American motor cars are the standard of the world — the best machines at a given price that are manufactured anywhere. And they got that way through private capital and competitive enterprise alone — in stark contrast to the fumbling record of foreign countries in which Socialism dictates that the State must have a hand in everything.

Automobile accidents we do have, but the trouble isn't with the cars — it's with the drivers. A shrewd safety authority said during the congressional debate that the remedy for accidents wasn't to change cars but to bar a large number of Americans from driving.

That didn't suit the politicians — there wouldn't have been any political appointments for their camp followers, not to mention the fact that the politicians themselves would have been out of office come the next election! Reminds me of the dilemma the government is in over its war against poverty. Everyone knows you can't end poverty simply by giving people money, unless you also control how they shall spend it. So the politicians did what politicians always do when faced with a dilemma — they paid out the money to get votes, and let poverty strictly alone.

4 of Family Found Slain in Louisiana

By JOHN LANG
GOLDEN MEADOW, La. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies and volunteer searchers stumbled on the semi-nude bodies of three children today partly submerged in mud and water near the spot where their mother's battered body was discovered Sunday.

The three bodies lay 20 feet apart in a triangle in desolate marsh country.

Mrs. Barbara Verett and her children—a boy and two girls—had been sought since her common-law husband, Bernardo Mejia, returned to their home in Berwick, La., a week ago and found the empty house spattered with blood.

Multiple murder charges have been brought against Mejia's nephew, Roy Mejia, 27, who had been living with the family. Roy Mejia was thought to have fled to Mexico.

11 Inches Rain Here in 3 Days

Hempstead county had 4.2 inches of rain Monday up to 7 a.m. today, pushing the three-day total beginning Saturday to 11.28 inches, the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station reported.

High temperature for the 24 hours ending 7 a.m. today was 64 degrees, and the low 59.

Wire reports indicated the storm is moving out of Arkansas as of today.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted today that the heavy rains over the weekend would begin ending from the west Tuesday.

The forecast called for continued showers and thunderstorms in the state through tonight, with the heaviest concentration in the southeast section of the state.

More than seven inches of rain fell on Hope during the weekend while Batesville and Gilbert recorded more than five inches and Arkadelphia and Morrilton more than four, the bureau said.

Rivers in the state soared near and above the flood stage, with the Black River at Black Rock 10 feet above flood stage today.

The Weather Bureau said the Black would crest at 25 to 28 feet at Black Rock today.

Other crest forecasts include 28 to 29 feet at Newport Tuesday where the flood stage is 26 feet; 20 feet at Clarendon Friday (flood stage 26); 34 feet at Augusta Wednesday or Thursday (flood stage 32) and 32 to 34 feet at Camden Wednesday (flood stage 26).

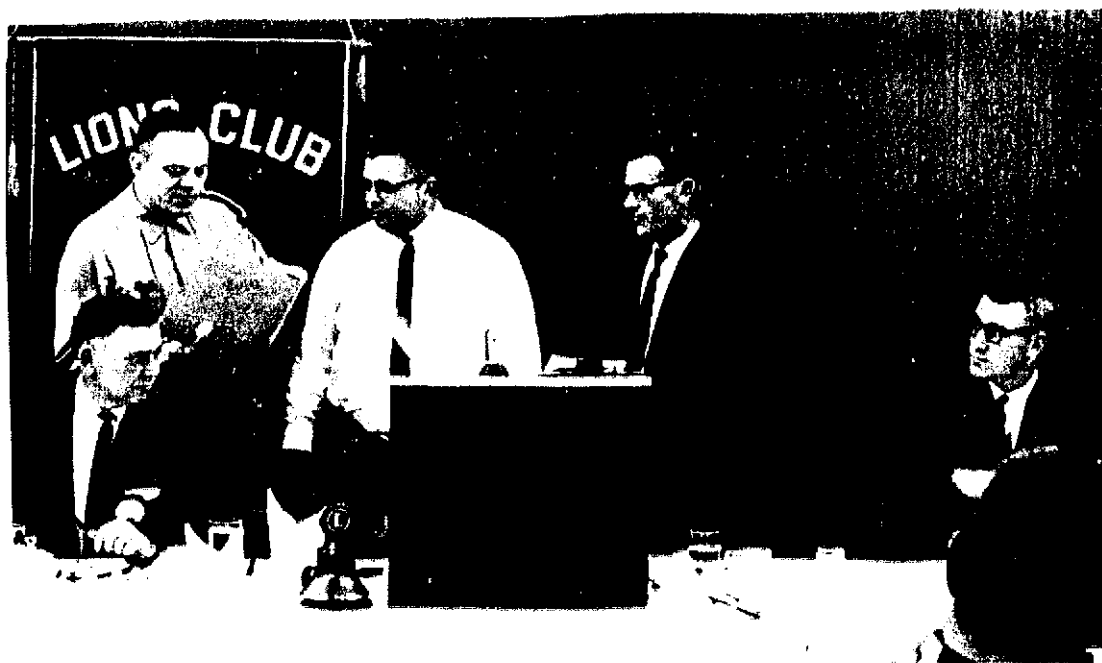

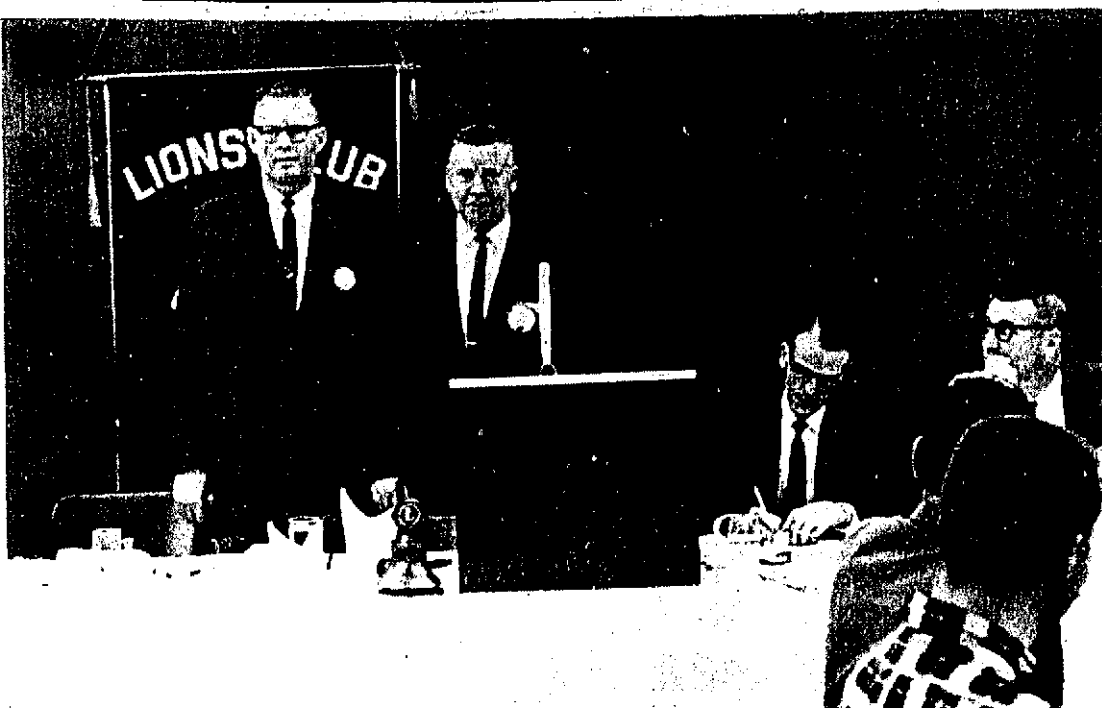

The bureau predicted low temperatures tonight ranging from 54 degrees in the northwest to 64 degrees in the southeast.

Maximum temperatures Tuesday will range from 68 degrees to 76 degrees.

Mild temperatures prevailed again overnight with the minimums ranging from 52 degrees at Fayetteville to 62 degrees at Little Rock.

Co-op Buying Good Deal of Equipment

Many small farmers who by themselves would be unable to buy an expensive combine, cotton picker or spraying equipment are now joining with other small farmers in their community to form a cooperative and get an economic opportunity to own loan to a purchase such equipment together.

Jett High, local county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, says that hundreds of such loans have been made through-out rural America and small farmers are improving their farm operations.

It Wasn't Rattlesnake After All

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sirens screaming, police officers responded to a call that a rattlesnake was loose in a woman's overnight bag.

The woman frantically explained that she had just returned from a trip to Mexico and was opening her bag when she heard the rattle. She slammed the bag shut and tossed it out the window onto the sidewalk.

Patrolmen — armed with brooms — opened the bag, scattered its contents on the sidewalk and leap out when they heard the distinct buzz.

They probed at the clothes. The buzz grew louder. Then something bright rolled out the woman at the window.

"Lady, you don't have any rattlesnake. What you've got is your electric toothbrush turned on."

Motors Will Accept U.S. Safety Rules

WASHINGTON (P) — Reversing its previous position, the automobile industry called today for "effective and forceful governmental machinery for not'ing vehicle safety standards without delay."

John S. Bugas, vice president of Ford Motor Co., told a House committee in behalf of the auto manufacturers:

"We favor a strong role for the federal government in setting vehicle safety performance standards."

The industry contended in earlier congressional testimony that it should be allowed to set car safety standards. But many members of Congress have demanded strong federal standards.

In a 64-page statement prepared for the House Commerce Committee, Bugas said: "Today's U.S.-built cars are the safest in our history."

But he added that the rising traffic toll demands "development of nationally uniform and legally binding vehicle safety standards."

"We believe," he said, "that the federal government should have the ultimate authority and duty under appropriate guidelines to establish the standards applicable to the manufacture and first sale of the vehicle, and that the states should be encouraged to enact similar standards and enforce them during the vehicle's useful life."

Bugas' statement also endorsed administration proposals for research into accidents and for development of highway safety programs. It went one step beyond the administration bill's provision that the secretary of commerce — or secretary of transportation if such a position is created — have the power to set safety standards if he deems them necessary.

Bugas said the secretary should be required to set "legally binding" standards.

Three weeks ago Bugas urged the Senate Commerce Committee to let the industry show what it can do voluntarily before any government standards are imposed.

He also said then that federal standards were not necessary but that Congress could always pass legislation later if it was not satisfied with industry efforts.

In his testimony today, Bugas objected to some parts of the administration bill, such as "too severe" penalties and the use of broad terms that refer to standards as "appropriate" and "adequate."

And he urged that states be given a role in development and enforcement of standard.

Artificial Heart Case Succumbs

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Marcel DeRudder, died at 2:04 a.m. today of a possible rupture of his bronchia or trachea as a partial artificial heart device implanted in his chest almost six days ago continued to function.

The retired coal miner from Westville, Ill. who had suffered serious heart trouble for many years, had lived for six days in the quiet world of unconsciousness following the dramatic surgery last Thursday.

A Methodist Hospital spokesman said DeRudder's death was "sudden" and "unexplained."

He said death "was probably produced by a rupture of the bronchia or trachea," but that the exact cause of death could not be determined until completion of a post-mortem examination.

The left ventricular by-pass, which had been installed to give the coal miner's left ventricle a chance to heal before resuming its normal function, was functioning at the time of death, the spokesman said.

Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, head surgeon of a team which performed the operation, was in attendance when DeRudder died, the spokesman added.

Jury Selected in Murder Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Rivald William Dunn, 29, of Magnolia, Ohio entered its second day today with eleven jurors seated.

Dunn and Richard Carlisle Hooten, 21, of Louisville, Ky., are charged in the death of Thomas Duane Hoard, 20, of Houston, Tex., whose body was found on Labor Day, 1964, in a pond near the Pulaski-Saline county line.

The state is seeking the death penalty for Dunn. Circuit Judge William J. Kirby has granted defense motions for separate trial of the two men.

Strike May Kill Three N.Y. Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Mediation Service today steps into the dispute between the Newspaper Guild of New York and the newly merged World Journal Tribune, struck before it could publish its first editions.

Each side expressed pleasure that federal mediators were entering the talks.

"We welcome any help to keep all the parties together in this thing," said Mail Meyer, president of the merged corporation.

Meyer contradicted a progress report made Monday night by a union official after the publishers and printers met in another effort to break the deadlock.

"We're still miles apart," he said.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6 of the International Typographical Union, which is demanding extra severance pay for printers who lost their jobs in the merger, said: "We think we're making progress."

However, Powers said he had not received an offer from the publishers on the issue.

The AFL-CIO Newspaper Guild struck the new corporation shop and nine other unions have refused to cross picket lines. The firm, composed of the Journal-American, the World-Telegram & Sun and the Herald Tribune, was to have published its first editions Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Robb, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, says that if unions don't lower their demands New York City will lose three newspapers instead of one.

This loss, he said Monday, would mean elimination of 5,000 jobs, instead of 2,000.

Robb, publisher of the Albany (N.Y.) Times-Union and Knickerbocker News, made the statement in a speech at the ANPA's 80th annual meeting.

Middle Age No Terminal, Merely Part of Journey Through Life, Says Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you wonder whether you are middle-aged?

Well, middle age is like success or life itself: It isn't a destination — just part of the journey.

Nobody is born middle-aged; it is thrust upon us by time. If you keep your nose clean, wash behind your ears, and look both ways before crossing the street, sooner or later you will achieve middle age. It is one of the pallid laurels of successful living.

Some people, on reaching middle age, try to hide it, as though it were a shameful disease. Actually, of course, it isn't really a malady, although it can be catching.

In any case, it is foolish to try to camouflage the condition of middle age.

Undoubtedly, you are middle-aged if:

You'd rather grow tomatoes than roses, because you can only smell roses but you can eat tomatoes.

In a year you gulp more aspirin tablets than you do candy mints.

You suspect that anyone who chews gum in public is mentally deficient.

There is no doubt in your mind that the average teen-ager carries a switchblade knife and is a potential dope addict.

Hot Springs Club Hit by Landslide

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Three men narrowly escaped death late Monday night when tons of dirt and rock loosened by five consecutive days of rain thundered down a hillside onto the rear of the Southern Club here.

No one was seriously hurt. The once-popular casino was empty of customers.

The landslide destroyed a second floor office addition to the club.

Police said that the three men, employees of the club, were on the roof of the hillside building, checking drains when the debris came roaring down at them.

They told officers they heard a thunderous roar, then electric wires began popping.

Two of the men jumped on a nearby fire escape to escape the tumbling dirt and rocks to a lower level and scrambled to safety, police said.

Johnny Wehuni, about 21, and Van Rogers, 17, received abrasions, officers said and Albert Richard, 17, escaped unscratched. All are of Hot Springs.

Police said the landslide twisted 10-inch steel beams in the office addition to the club and sent a larger beam crashing through a wall of the adjacent Aristocrat Motor Inn.

Water was reported 10 inches deep in the kitchen of the Southern Club. Officers said cascades of water rushed through the remainder of the building's lower floor.

Gene Stonelcipher, operator of the club, said he was unable Monday night to estimate damages. There was no estimate of damages to the inn.

Several instances of flooding were reported along Central Avenue, the main street of Hot Springs, as the rains continued.

Homecoming Planned for Class of '22

Final plans for the Hope High School class of 1922 Homecoming were made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Moore on Monday night. There will be an afternoon open house from 3 until 5 p.m. April 30 at the Country Club.

This is in order that all local people may drop in and visit with the ones who are coming from out of town. A dinner at night for the class mates from Florida to Washington will arrive. There were 54 members of the class and plans are made for 40 or more at the dinner.

You dimly remember that the Lambeth Walk was a dance, but you shrug when anyone mentions the Frug. It isn't part of your vocabulary, and you don't want it to be.

Sitting on the bus going home you get angry because some younger fellow doesn't get up and give his seat to an old lady. You'd do it yourself — if your feet didn't hurt you.

It annoys you if your wife buys a new piece of furniture. You'd rather have the old one reupholstered.

If you get a martini at lunch that isn't up to your standard, your secretary suffers for it the rest of the afternoon.

You hate to admit you're growing older, but you are miffed if your friends don't send you a card on your birthday.

What you don't give to the doctor, the dentist gets.

Trifles break down your morale. If you get a shirt back from the laundry with a button missing, that's just one more sign that the whole world's against you.

All the foods you like are bad for you, and all the foods you hate are good for you.

You are more comfortable in the company of a man whose prejudices you know than one whose cleverness you don't quite grasp.
